HOW I WRITE MY NOVELS

THE AUTHOR

As a recent Sunday paper of many, I have no idea how they do it. When they write their novels, each book has its own special attraction. They may use the same characters, but the scenes and settings are always different. The introduction of new characters is a constant feature.

THE HERO

The hero of my novel is a man named John Smith, who lives in a small town in the middle of the forest. He is a simple man, but he is brave and resourceful. He has a special talent for solving mysteries.

ROMANCES OF THE WIRER

By Rose Wilder

Wendy, a young woman, has been in love with her friend John for years. She has never said anything to him, but she knows he is aware of her feelings. One day, while they are out walking in the woods, Wendy suddenly realizes that she is in love with John.

Are You the Operator Here?

In a certain gift shop on a busy street, a man named X is working as a switchboard operator. He is young and handsome, with a charming smile. He has a special talent for talking to people.

Three days later, John discovers that Wendy has moved to New York City. He is heartbroken and decides to follow her. He takes a job as a switchboard operator in a large hotel, where he hopes to find Wendy.

If you have any questions, please let me know.